Telegrams.

HAVAS

Vienna, 11th—There is a rumour that the Hungarian Premier, Tisza, is about to resign.

Rome, 11th—The Italian troops, General Orero telegraphs from Massouah, have retreated to Asmara.

Rio, 11th—The Minister of the Interior has resigned, and Cæsar Alvim takes his place. It is said that the Minister of Justice will also resign.

GALVESTON.

London, 10th.—Europe takes only a personal and passing interest in the Orleanist adventure in Paris; but is seriously occupied during the past week with the astounding proclamation of Emperor William on the workmen's question. Advanced politicians, like Labouchere and Clemencan, consider it a political pledge to influence the coming elections to the Reichstag.

Advices from Lisbon announce that a republican rising in Lisbon is imminent; and it is curious that the adventure of the Duke of Orleans in Paris has hastened the crisis. The Countess of Paris, mother of the young Duke, has arrived here and says that the Count has abandoned his intended trip to America, and will return to England. Pradene moved in the Deputies to revoke the banishment law against pretenders to the throne. Minister Thevenet opposed the motion, which was rejected by 328 to 171 votes.

London, 11th—The Queen's Speech was read last night at a Ministerial dinner. It refers to good foreign relations, and says that Portugal has yielded to England in East Africa and is doing all she can to keep up her old friendly relations with Great Britain. The British Government is cordially working to the same end. It refers to the conference in Brussels and expresses a hope that it will tend to suppress the slave trade. It congratulates Egypt on its financial prosperity, and briefly alludes to the Samoan Treaty, promising to lay before Parliament documents in reference to the Samoan Conferenc and the Extradition Treaty with the United States. Her Majesty hopes for good results from the Federal movement in Australia.

Rome, 11th.—The Swiss Minister to the Quirinal thinks that Switzerland will accept Germany's invitation to a conference on the Working Classes question, but thinks that the Swiss Conference will be more acceptable to the Powers, especially to France.

London, 11th.—The dock labourers at Dundee have struck work for an increased wage of a penny per hour.

BUENOS AYRES HARBOUR WORKS

The inauguration of the Deposits erected in connection with the South Basin and Dock No. 1 took place yesterday morning in a practical manner in the presence of Senor Don Joaquin Granel, Administrator in Chief of the Custom House, Sr. Don Evaristo Moreno, chief Alcalde; Sr. D. Zemboráin, Custom House Inspector of South Basin and Dock No. 1 Deposits; Sr. Don Eduardo Madero, the Concessionnaire; Mr. J. M. Dobson, representing Messrs. Hawkshaw and Hayter, the Engineers; Mr. C. H. Walker, representing the contractor, and a large number of merchants and shipping agents of the Capital, amongst whom we noticed the following:—Sr. Don Uladislao Frias, (late Home Minister) Mariano Unzue, Saturnino Unzue, Juan Blaquier, Juan Cañas, Dr. Benites, Mr. T S Boadle, Mr. Samson, Mr. Johnson, Mr. Drysdale, Mr. Hanson, under-Sec. of Finance, Mr. Necol, Dr. O' Farrell, Mr. Suffern, Mr. Martin Donos and others who had been invited by Mr. Madero to witness the inauguration.

At 8 o'clock the Government Custom House officials arrived at the deposits of the South Basin with a large staff of officials and met under Señor Zamboráin, who at once made the necessary arrangements for commencing the discharge of cargo into the deposits from ships alongside the Basin and Dock No. 1.

At 9 o'clock Mr. Madero and his friends arrived, and the discharging of the vessels commenced at the South Basin. The Al. lan Line steamer "Phoenician" was moored alongside in front of Deposit No. 3, and her cargo was discharged by the hydraulic cranes direct from the hold of the vessel, landing it on the platform of the Deposit, where it was received by the Custom House officials and conveyed and stacked inside the Deposits. There were 3 other vessels alongside discharging in the same manner viz: "Mary", 'Referida" and "Dorothea", working one crane into each vessel. All the cranes worked entirely satisfactorily.

* * * * *

From the South Basin the visitors proceeded to the large bonded warehouse on the west side of Dock No. 1. The Lamport and Holt steamer "Ilios" was lying alongside the quay in front of this deposit, ready to discharge her cargo. In the presence of the party three hydraulic cranes were put to work, one in each hold of the steamer, and the goods taken direct from the hold and deposited in the warehouse, in the first, second or third floor, as required, Mr. Boadle, the agent, standing right under the huge lift. It is a coincidence worthy of mention that this steamer brought out the first cargo of plant required by the contractors for constructing these important works.

Mr. Madero afterwards entertained the whole party at a breakfast which was served in the warehouse on the first floor, by the Aguila. The party included all who stood below and around the lift, and hungry enough they looked as they went up stairs.

When we had discussed the merits of a really good breakfast and came to the champagne period, Mr Eduard Madero, who sat at the head of the table, rose and in eloquent terms spoke to the work we had all witnessed; he said, that in September this year he would have dock No. 2 ready, and the whole work completed in 1893. He drank success to these great works and to the commerce of Buenos Aires. (Great applause)

Dr Frias, Judge of the Supreme Court, in graceful terms proposed the health of Mr Madero, which was drunk with all the honors.

Dr Benitez proposed the health of the Engineers and Contractors, coupling with it the names of Messrs Dobson and C H Walker, and spoke in flattering terms to the triumphs of their genius in these splendid works.

Mr Dobson returned thanks on his own behalf and that of Mr Walker for the kind way in which the toast had been proposed. They had done their utmost to complete the work, and he took this opportunity of thanking the members of his own staff as well as Mr Walker and his staff for the energy and zeal they had displayed in completing the Warehouse in which the party were now seated.

In doing their work they had endeavoured to do honour to the old country, and he thought that those present could not but admit that they had done so, and, as in a large piece of machinery it is necessary that every portion should work harmoniously, he trusted that they having done their part, the merchants of Buenos Aires would do their utmost in the furtherance of the prosperity of the Argentine Republic.

Mr. Walker also rose and asked Mr. Madero to express in his vernacular his thanks for the warm manner in which the company had toasted his health (great applause). It was now getting on late in the day, the chairman rose and the company hurried back to town.

Mr. Walker's staff present:—

Mr. E. M. Simpson, Mr. J. Railton, Mr. A. C. Low, Mr. R. H. C. Davison, Mr. W. MacDonald, Mr. G. R. Davenport, Mr. G. Rankin, Mr. J. R. Baylie, Mr. C. A. Mendham, Mr. J. Train and Mr. T. G. Davis.

Mr. Dobson's staff present:—

Mr. Mollett, Mr. Wright, and Mr. Harrison.

The whole of the Hydraulic machinery has been supplied by Sir M. G. Armstrong Mitchell and Co. of Newcastle upon-Tyne.

The pumping machinery, which transmits the water at a pressure of 750 lbs. (50 atmospheres) on the square inch throughout the whole of the main piping, which is laid on a ledge at the back of the dock walls and across each lock and passage, consists of two high pressure compound tandem condensing steam engines each of 450 horse power, and is so constructed that they can be worked equally well with or without their condensers. For supplying these engines with steam 4 Lancashire boilers each 27 feet long and 7 feet diameter have been provided. The accumulator is an exceptionally large, one having a ram of 20 inches diameter and 37 feet stroke; other similar accumulators will be erected along the dock walls as the work progresses.

The engines are put in motion or stopped by an automatic arrangement worked by the accumulator and so arranged that when the latter is at the top of its stroke it closes the throttle valve in the main steam pipe and stops the engine, thereby reducing wear and tear and coal consumption to a minimum. The whole of the above machinery is contained in one spacious building.

The quays and docks are well provided with movable hydraulic cranes, so that the loading and discharging of the largest ships or the smallest lighters can be rapidly and effectively performed.

The lifting power of these cranes will range from thirty hundred weight to thirty tons.

The swing bridge which spans the South Lock is also worked by the hydraulic machinery. This bridge weighs over three hundred tons, and the operation of opening or closing it occupies only about one minute and a half. One of these bridges will be erected over each passage between the docks and over the remaining lock.

The ponderous lock gates, each leaf weighing over one hundred and fifteen tons, are also worked with the greatest of ease by the same agency. Four hydraulic capstans are also provided, one placed on each side at each end of the Lock; these capstans are capable of exerting a strain of five tons on a towing rope, and are found most useful in hauling vessels through the Lock. The four sluice doors which are used for performing the operation of locking vessels or regulating the level of the water in the docks are also worked by the same power.

A number of movable fire-injector hydrants, worked from the same hydraulic mains, are always in readiness in case of fire breaking out.

The above machinery, work and fittings have been erected under the personal supervision of Mr. Geo. T. Davies, and the satisfactory manner in which the machines work is a sufficient testimony to his care and ability.

THE NATIONAL BANK.

Such is the magnitude of the interests vested in the National Bank, that for once the report of the auditing committee appointed by the shareholders was looked forward to with some anxiety. We say anxiety, because the abandoned condition of the stock of that bank had led to apprehensions that are now removed. It is a herculean task to audit the books of a concern like the National Bank, with its score of branches and agencies, enormous capital and mammoth issue; yet the committee have got through the task in a week. Such industry and activity deserve the greatest praise, but the market at large would have been better pleased if a few more details and figures had been made public. Thus the Committee deal with the principal subject, in their auditing, in the following laconic manner:—

"Whilst calmly revising the immense list of debtors of the Bank, we have acquired the conviction that the monies have been prudently distributed, with the exception of some heavy credits, which, as was proved to us, are, in general, well guaranteed and in no case can occasion loss to the Bank."

This is put in a most diplomatic manner, but there is something so evasive about the paragraph that it would have been better if a whole list of these heavy credits had been appended in a general manner to the report: for in the present stage of doubt, the market is only too willing to believe that very much is clouded in the laconism of the committee's paragraph. Then, what do the members of the committee understand under the term "heavy credits"—this is a term so relative and so elastic that it may range from a paltry hundred thousand to a round million. That the Bank will not suffer from the liabilities of these "heavy credits" is, no doubt, an assurance most satisfactory to the shareholders, who are induced to hope for the best, but it carries no weight in the market; on the contrary, that very assurance implies doubts and anxieties. The market believes these "heavy credits" are a mere name for financial operations arranged with the Provincial Governments in the shape of advances on loans of Legislatures, etc., and we doubt not that if everything goes well these large operations will leave the Bank a profit. With regard to small credits, the report states:—

"The credits of five, ten and twenty thousand dollars each are innumerable, and embrace nearly the entire commercial body of this capital and of the provinces, including the shepherd, the farmer, and the manufacturer; this shows an excellent distribution of capital and the important services of the Bank to all classes of society."

It would be an ungrateful task to join issue with such satisfactory arguments, but in a market where the merchant and trader have ample opportunity to judge the merits of the case from personal experience, the least said, soonest mended, in this kind of appreciation. It may be that the Bank, with its traditional patriotism, has drained its coffers here to supply the mercantile requirements of the Interior; it may be that the capital and paper issue of the Bank were insufficient for the gigantic task of meeting local requirements; it may be—well, the fact stands the Bank cannot cope with the needs of this market. Yet there are men who believe that the paper issue of the National Bank is quite sufficient to meet the trade wants of the whole republic.

"The list of bad debts has been revised with care, and we can state with satisfaction that, in spite of the large total, no less than 2,674,177 doll. paper money, the greater number of debtors are able to meet their obligations if allowed time and facilities by the Board."

Lucky bank, if the above prove true. There is a strain of financial tolerance in the final remarks that embodies a propaganda in banking that for leniency might be compared to that against capital punishment in criminal legislation. Still, in this country, the financial doctrine of the committee is certainly the one that gives the best results, notwithstanding the summary execution and "wiping out" traditions of Lombard-street.

Nothing could better confirm some of the above remarks on the report than the very words of the committee when dwelling on the well-known abuse of overdrawing in account current, viz:—

"The restriction of accounts current and of personal credit, not to mention other measures of internal management recently adopted by the Board of the Bank, must give still more satisfactory results in the future working of the Bank; for if no serious obstacles have arisen from the late liberal system, though prudent, up to the present, the multiplicity of debtors and operations may entail difficulties and losses that will far more affect the shareholders than the Government, etc."

This is about as plain an expression of opinion as might be expected from the diplomatic toil of an auditing committee of the Nat. Bank. It is as clear as a pikestaff that the Board must turn over a new leaf, put a stop to inordinate personal credits, cut down the abuse in accounts current, and refrain from being induced by the Nat. Government to enter on any more large financial operations. In fact, the time has come to put on the brake—that brake is already on the speed of the country, for we see retrenchment and slackening of the rate of advance on all sides. The National Bank cannot form an exception; it must abide by this law of reaction.

THE BOLSA REPORT.

From March to September, the term of existence of the Varela ministry, the decree prohibiting gold sales remained in force. After Mr. Varela's resignation, the Government issued a decree reopening the sales of gold at the ring: could anything be more palpable, that the suppression of gold sales was a mere ministerial experiment, carried out under the high financial reputation of Mr. Varela, though at variance with the opinions of the Government, opinions that were, no doubt, waived in consideration of the results expected from such restriction.

The tabular statements at the end of this Report prove with the eloquence of figures how barren of results, how negative, this policy of militant finances was, based on a coercion of the market. The disturbance in the previously unfettered system of operations was so keenly felt that, as the tabular statements show, the price of gold rose many points, and not all the elements of the state could put a stationary level to prices or produce a fall in gold quotations. The depreciation of the currency continued steadily until it reached the present limits.

This sudden rise must be attributed, not only to the disturbances and distrust caused by violent intrusion upon the market, and leading to the so-called metallization of capital in all classes, but also to the export of a great amount of gold which was lent on time and was incorporated with the floating capital of the country; and that gold lost its market, it left the country.

This gold, whether rightly or wrongly employed, we shall not argue, represented a mass of real values that supported the supply and neutralized the demand in equal proportions, thus helping to prevent the depreciation of the currency.

We may say with truth and free from all spirit of hostility that this abnormal period has produced in the country the profound monetary disturbance for which there is no other apparent explanation. No other sufficiently powerful cause can be found to explain such an extraordinary depreciation of the currency, which, after all, represents, or at least participates in, the confidence inspired by our elements of national progress.

What profound commotion in our economic system could account for the intense disturbance in the last six months in the two factors of circulation which answer to production and consumption?

This country has not left off producing, increasing its agricultural wealth, strengthening all its elements of development, increasing its current of immigration, incorporating that multiple and live force that flows to our shores in the shape of hundreds of thousands of new-comers.

This depreciation of 57 o/o finds only a precedent in the French Assignats, in a period of revolutionary bankruptcy, of incessant war in which, to the astonishment of the Great Captain, every victory signalled a fresh fall in the public funds. Afterwards, in the United States, during the War for the Union, in which credit and all the elements of production shrank in the midst of civil strife, the dollar fell to 55 o/o discount. But in these instances we detect a real, profound, organic cause, an exhaustion caused by war which increases consumption, shatters credit, and cripples production.

Amongst us there is not one of those causes of that effective impoverishment which paralyzes a country, dries up the sources of wealth, and throws a gloom over the future.

No doubt, we have abused our home and foreign credit, not so much in amount as in misapplication of that amount; we have exceeded the limits of issue, thus swelling the volume of the paper circulation, raising a fever of speculation and inflation that has reduced the purchasing power of the note, reaching such proportions that to-day we need, to effect an operation, twice the amount of money required in usual epochs. When paper is found wanting, the void is filled with stocks, which accumulate and still more inflate values.

But all these are superficial causes, mere disturbances in the form of wealth, powerless to affect the foundation of an economic vitality or to produce those phenomena at variance with the industrial growth of the country.

The export of cereals of the 1889-90 season may be calculated already at 25 million gold dollars, a figure that will be the highest ever reached in our agricultural production, and which will comprise, more or less, 400,000 tons of wheat, a million tons of maize, and a small balance in linseed and other products of less importance.

Though from apparent causes the pastoral industry does not show the same ratio of growth, yet its production increases and forms a great fraction of our foreign trade.

The economic and industrial state of the country, therefore, does not account for this financial lingering that could only be attributed to the effects of great disaster.

It seems to us clear and logical that since the evil does not lie in our economic organism, we must search for it in the mechanism of circulation, of exchange and of credit, functions regulated by the banks, especially the official banks, which by their position, influence and capital sway over all others.

The management of the banks, by distributing credit in an irregular and imprudent manner, delivering their capital with facilities that stimulate lazy speculation, has had a leading and decisive role in the monetary disturbance.

The banks are the central organs that direct the energy, increase or restrict it according to the requirements of the market, on which also they can effect a reaction when requirements are the product of artificial causes. The banks, furthermore, are the great regulators of credit, the application of which they can control by measures of local organization. The influence of banks, especially of such as our state banks, which sway the market with their elements, is so great that one alone, like that of the celebrated Law, can produce a crisis by diverting capital from useful employment into purely speculative enterprises.

We have, for instance, the mortgage banks especially that of the Province of Buenos Aires. The unlimited grant of territorial credit and the plethora of Cedulas have merely aroused a fever of land speculation. The Cedula, which is a means of mobilizing real-estate capital has degenerated from a factor of agricultural progress into a mere stimulant of speculation.

Two huudrd millions of Cedulas issued in less than two years have made up the fuel to enhance the value of land, an artificial rise in value and proportional to the loss of value of the Cedula. The tabular calculations at the end of the report confirm these statements.

The speculation in these movable values has possessed the market, their depreciation increasing with fresh emissions.

It is not the shepherd, the farmer or the merchant that is favored by this enormous mass of Cedulas launched into circulation; no, it is the barren speculator, and therefore, none need wonder at the depreciation of the bond, nor at the pernicious and enervating effects felt in a market surfeited with stocks.

The banks of discounts cooperated with, or rather preceded the mortgage banks; long before the latter, paper money inflation, which is a consequence of forced currency and large credit operations, had supplied to individual credit great facilities and ample concessions to foment unproductive investments.

(To be Concluded.)

The Bresil's Mails.

London, January 16 1890.

The Prince of Wales is expected at Cannes from Berlin in the first week in February.

The Princess of Wales is improving in health, though still kept indoors.

Lord Hartington is so much better that the doctors now dispense with bulletins.

Mr. C R M Talbot, M.P., "the father of the House of Commons", who had just recovered from an illness, has had a relapse, and his condition is now causing much anxiety to his many friends.

Mr. W H Smith, M.P., has given 2,500l. towards the restoration of the churches of St. Breage and St. Germoe, near Helston.

John Strange Winter (Mrs Arthur Stannard) is one of the latest sufferers from the influenza. She is lying ill at her house in Earl's-court.

There is a desire among military men that the remains of Lord Napier of Magdala should rest side by side with those of distinguished soldiers in Westminster Abbey—notably Lord Clyde, Sir J Outram, and Sir G Pollock, who was Constable of the Tower from October, 1871, to October, 1872, and was buried at the latter date in the Abbey by the side of Lord Clyde.

The price of quinine has risen this week in consequence of the inroads made upon the available stock by the consumption of influenza patients.

No great speed is being made in satisfying the public as to the cause of the disaster at Forest Gate Industrial Schools on New Year's morning. The inquest is being long drawn out. It was resumed and adjourned again yesterday without any conclusion being arrived at, and not much evidence was adduced to throw light on the cause of the fire. Mr. Cook, chairman of the Board of Management, said the locking of the front doors of the dormitories was necessary to prevent the boys from absconding, and Mr. Duncan, superintendent of the schools, gave his opinion that the boys who died could not have lived in the smoke five minutes. Next Monday some of the lads who escaped will be called.

The trial of Mr. Ernest Parke on the charge of having libelled the Earl of Euston was begun yesterday at the Central Criminal Court. A man named Saul swore that he had himself taken Lord Euston to the house in Cleveland-street, and several other witnesses stated that they had seen Lord Euston going into the house and coming out. With the exception of formal witnesses, the complainant was the only person who went into the box in support of his own case. He declared that the allegations against him were without foundation, that he had never seen the witness Saul, and that his only visit to 19, Cleveland-street was made in the belief that he was going to see some "poses plastiques" for which a ticket had been given him. On discovering the character of the house he left in indignation. The hearing had not concluded when the Court adjourned.

A novel defence was heard yesterday in a Queen's Bench libel suit—so novel that the jury were utterly perplexed and could not agree upon a verdict. The plaintiff was Mr. Oliver J. Prince, a newspaper correspondent, and the defendant, the proprietor of The Maidstone and Kentish Journal, insisted that the libellous matter complained of had been actually written by himself. Experts in handwriting and others supported the defendant's contention, which was further backed up by the suggestion of an adequate motive for this mysterious conduct on the plaintiff's part. On the other hand, the plaintiff swore positively that he was not the author of the libel on himself, and produced his wife and two other witnesses to rebut the theory of the experts and other witnesses of the defendant. The jury, giving up the puzzle in despair, were discharged.

A "departmental" dinner to celebrate the jubilee of the penny post was held last evening in the Holborn Restaurant. The present Postmaster-General, who presided, was supported by past Postmasters Sir Lyon Playfair and Mr. Shaw Lefevre. In his speech Mr. Raikes illustrated the great increase in postal work by these striking facts: Whereas formerly three letters per annum only were carried for each head of the population, now the Post Office carries 42; and the postal value of letters carried is 20 times what it was 50 years ago. The calculation is exclusive of post-cards, circulars, and book packets. The increase of the last two years alone is greater than the whole number of letters carried in 1840.

The alleged blackmailing case is still going on before she Lord Chief Justice. Mr. Rogers's cross-examination was yesterday concluded. Mrs. Bebro gave evidence. Mr. Marcus Bebro gave his account of an interview with the defendants Marks and Woolf, and said that Mr. Marks demanded £500 to keep certain references as to the Crystal Reef Company out of The Mining Record. This witness was still under examination when the Court adjourned till this morning.

At the opening of the Prussian Diet yesterday the Speech from the Throne, which was read by Herr von Boetticher, promised a Bill introducing the principle of life interest in the purchase of agricultural estates. There was a curious paternal reference to the recent strikes. The employers who had discerned what demands of the men were just, and had yielded to them, were patted on the back for their wisdom; but at the same time the men were sternly warned against attempts to disturb the peace, and required to put their trust in the solicitude of the Government for their welfare. The allusions to fiscal reform were so vague that the general impression is that the Government will not effect it this session.

Anti-English and anti-Monarchical demonstrations continue to excite the population of Lisbon. A Special Correspondent there sends us an interesting account of the strength of the Republican movement, and the attempts of the Court to stem it. The new Cabinet yesterday presented itself to the Chamber of Deputies, and Senhor Serpa Pimentel made a declaration of policy. He stated his conviction that Portugal had right on her side, and, of course, promised that his Ministry would uphold the rights and protect the interests of their country to the best of their ability. The late Ministers promise their aid, not generally, but "in the settlement of problems in which the dignity and honour of the country are concerned."

A distinct rise in the Funds to 97⅜, ½ for ready money was the feature of the stock markets yesterday. The demand for money was fierce, but the rush is regarded as the last kick given during the recent period of stringency. A Bank rate at 6 per cent all the same will quite probably be maintained for six weeks to come. Home railway stocks were depressed by bear sales connected with dullness in pig iron and dear money.

Railway Items.

The latest news in tramway circles is a big law-suit, in which the Metropolitan is involved. The plaintiffs are Messrs. Spinetto and Stoppani, and the case is as follows. These gentlemen made a contract with the Metropolitan Tramways Company whereby the company were bound to purchase from them a piece of land in Flores, some 800,000 square varas (600,000 square metres), and the stipulated purchase money was a round million of dollars. The 800,000 square varas formed part of a property owned by the plaintiffs, the Company having a right to locate, and the payment was to be made as follows:—$100,000 cash; $100,000 thirty days after signing bill of sale; $200,000 on signing the deed, and the remainder in 7 o/o bills at 3, 6 and 9 months. All these arrangements having been made, the Company refused to carry out their contract, and hence these tears. The case is now before the Courts and will be decided as soon as possible.

In connection with the item we published the other day about steel wagons, we may state 100 iron-wagons have come out for the Bahia Blanca and North Western Railway. Wood has had its day.

There appears to be a hitch about the proposed bridge across the Rio Pava, Chilcas-Jujuy Railway. According to the plans, the Board of Public Works have discovered that the possibility of floods has not been taken into account. The Board have therefore proposed an alteration which will involve an extra cost of $52,799 gold. Talking of this line, we may state that the Board of Public Works have sent Engineer Seidler's report to the Minister. According to this report, there is not a sufficient number of culverts between kils. 58 and 69. The Inspector proposes 15 more, which would entail an extra cost of $18,282 gold.

The Tres Arroyos and Bahia Blanca Extension of the Great Southern Railway, the construction of which was placed in the hands of Messrs Bicknell and Bithell some six month ago, is making rapid progress and at the end of this month it is expected they will have reached the Sauce Grande from the Bahia Blanca end, a distance of 46 kilometers, and from Tres Arroyos the point of the rails will be as far out as the Quequen salado, a distance of 34 kilometer.

To-day there are from twelve hundred to fifteen hundred men engaged on the earth works, which are very considerably heavier than the ordinary run of earthworks in this country, some of the embaukments reaching the height of twelve metres, and the cuttings which approach the Sauce Grande valley and that of Las Mostazas are also deep and long, and have to be driven through Tosca rock.

Bricks are being made simultaneously at four different points on the route, and the brickwork of the bridges and culverts is well in hand. The whole of the lime used has to be brought from Hinojo, and the sand for 80 kilometers from the Tres Arroya end has to be obtained from Tandil. The line is 190.400 kilometers in length, and bridges are being erected at several points to facilitate the rapid continuation of the line, which it is hoped will be complete and open for traffic by March or April next.

EDITOR'S TABLE.

Nothing very new yesterday. Nice day after the rain. Coppers scarcer than ever in and out of the tramways, and stale bread for breakfast and none for dinner, owing to the working bakers' strike. As usual, the justice of the case is with these men, and their masters must give way; but the end will be the same—dearer bread, for which the public must pay in the long run.

Members of the Tigre Boat Club must not forget the extraordinary general meeting to-night. The business on hand is very important, and unless two-thirds of the members resident in the city are present, it will fall to the ground. So fall in, gentlemen, and don't fall out.

In Montevideo they have changed their minds, and intend to have Carnival. More fools they; as there are 15,000 people down with influenza.

Here's a chance! We understand that a gentleman who brings excellent recommendations is engaged in forming a party to make a trip to Europe. Those desirous of making such a trip should avail themselves of the opportunity of going with him, as, from what we hear, he has the reputation of being a very cheerful travelling companion and knows his way about. The tour he intends making will occupy about six months, and those who go with him are likely to have a right good time. The gentleman in question has set a fixed sum to cover all expenses of the journey—except, of course, those of a purely personal nature, such as clothing, etc. We are not in a position to give full details, but letters addressed to "Rambler" at this office will be handed to him for attention. We believe he limits the number to five; so, if you want to enjoy yourselves, be prompt.

A usually well informed London weekly indulges in the following jumble:—"I have just been talking to a South American who has recently come from Brazil, and he says there was very little sympathy in that country for the exiled Royal family, and that these personages were foolishly blind to all that was going on around Brazil. He added that their country will eventually be two separate states—north and south. But before that is achieved there will be a war of secession. I learn that the President's eldest daughter, Senhora Miguel Juarez, is engaged to be married to the eldest son of the Vanberbilt of Buenos Aires, Signor Gregorio Torres, the head of the celebrated great Torres Bank of the Republic."

We are requested to announce that there will be no service next Sunday at the English Institute, Calle San Antonio, Barracas.

Owing to the unfavourable impression inflicted on the mind of our Deputy-Assistant-Auxiliary-Racing Reporter by the first meeting some weeks since at the San Fernando Hippodrome, we refrained from attending on Sunday last. We observe, however, that the Diario states that a charge of foul riding was made against Palacios, who was suspended till further notice; the same authority also states that he will be prosecuted criminally. Sorry as we are to note that the practice of foul riding is still rife, we hail with pleasure this sign that the Committees of the various racing Clubs have, although very late in the day, begun to open their eyes to the unsavory fact, and to visit offenders with condign punishment.

Captain Gregory of the Maskelyne, one of Lamport and Holt's best boats, has been the recipient of a flattering testimonial signed by the passengers who came out in her, this last trip. The Captain has won for himself great esteem and popularity, and the passengers appear to be all highly pleased with the discipline, order and cleanliness that prevail on board. We join the Captain's friends in congratulating him on his popularity.

The masquerade balls at the National Theatre, we hear, will be, like the Scots Greys, "second to none." The house has been repainted and decorated, fifty instrumentalists led by Professor Reynoso will supply the music, and in the windows of the "Minerva" the prizes to be drawn for by the fair dancers at the balls are on view for an admiring public. Application for ladies' tickets for the balls and drawings can be made at the theatre from 2 to 5 pm.

We thank Mr. Robert Bird, the talented Principal of the Academica Britanica, 943 Calle Belgrano, for favouring us with the report of that well-known school for last year. It is addressed to the Minister of Education, and contains some valuable suggestions to His Excellency. The figures show that Mr. Bird's pupils again acquired the first place in the official examinations.

Messrs. Mackern and McLean paid us another "periodical" visit yesterday in the shape of late papers from the capital of the civilized world, sometimes called the Modern Babylon—London. Many thanks, gentlemen.

Galveston took his time to explain the "terrible catastrophe" by which Secretary Tracy lost his wife and daughter. It was a fire in the house. It is satisfactory to learn that the bereaved statesman is recovering from the terrible shock.

The numerous friends in this city of Mr. Petre, H. M. Minister in Lisbon, were highly amused yesterday on learning that a fiery Portuguese Senator named Carve is desirous of carving him into little bits, and has challenged him to a duel. Of course, the valiant Carve knew perfectly well that his braggadocio was a safe game, as the diplomat could not accept the challenge. It is a question, however, whether such an outrage to a foreign representative on the part of a Senator and Councillor of State as challenging him to a duel, may not have to be apologized for by the Lisbon Government, quite irrespective of the African question. The Portuguese are behaving in a very imprudent and childish way in this affair, especially as Lord Salisbury has accepted the Conference they proposed.

Our ever zealous Lord Mayor is in a legal pickle. The "Edificios," one of the swarm of building companies, is suing him for tremendous damages because they cannot get on with a big house in that part of Calle Reconquista which his lordship wants to widen, but the City Commissioners won't have it. There is a decided "going to the three Ds" look just at present about city affairs in general, only redeemed by the wise action of the C. C.'s in clipping the wings of the Lord Mayor in the Haussmann line.

Another case of black vomit and yellow-fever on board the Brazilian iron-clad Riachuelo at Montevideo was reported yesterday. It strikes us with the force of a sledge-hammer that the sooner this vessel gets up steam and is off to her own country the better. A pretty how-do-you-do it will be if all the liberty, equality, fraternity, feeding and general fandango in connection with Bocayuva's visit to the Plate ends in starting an epidemic. May heaven forbid. A later report says the case was one of consumption.

Our archæological subscribers will totter with pleasurable emotion at the news that the authorities at the British museum have received information that a find of unusual interest has recently been made on the site of some recent excavations in Egypt. A tomb has been unearthed, which is believed by eminent archæologists to be that of Cleopatra. It was found at a depth of 25 ft. from the surface in a chamber 10ft. long, 2½ft. wide, and lofty in proportion. The sarcophagus was built in the form of a pyramid, and covered with exquisite carvings, among them a being five female figures, five crowns of laurel, and four figures of children. Some of the latter are entirely nude, while others are draped. In the centre of the crowns a bunch of grapes is carved. At the time the message was despatched the discoverers were awaiting the arrival of an Egyptian official, in order that the tomb might be formally opened.

There won't be much court or other mourning in Europe if that mean specimen of royalty retired from business, Milan of Servia, carry out his threat to perform the happy despatch on himself. Why Galveston thought such news worth wiring is more than we can imagine.

It is Prince Louis of Savoy, third son of the late Duke of Aosta, and not his eldest brother the present Duke, who is now in the Plate. His Royal Highness landed at La Plata yesterday.

A voice from Pergamino says that although they have got the influenza there, they are determined to go in for Carnival "con gusto", and spend their last depreciated dollar on the fun.

A good story is told of a new man who, on coming up on deck the first morning after starting on his first cruise as owner of a yacht, was asked by the steersman: "Beg pardon, Sir, will you take the helm?" "No, thankee," answered his swellship; "never take anything between breakfast and dinner!"

An attempt to smuggle $40,000 worth of jewels was foiled at the Custom House yesterday by a lynx-eyed tide-waiter. The delinquent is described as a foreign gentleman of very distinguished manners and appearance, and this is not the first time he has been caught at the same little game. The stale device of a double bottomed trunk was employed; but Customs men can tell to a quarter of an inch where the bottom of any trunk under the sun should end, inside and outside.

Poor Mr Navarro, the Civil Registrar in the Chaco, has been trying for the last six months to get married, but is still a bachelor, as he cannot marry himself, and there is not even one other Civil functionary in Vessel destroyed by fire.— Information, just received in Liverpool, reports the timely rescue of the crew of the barque Norge, by Messrs Lowdon, Edgar, and Co.'s ship Candida. The latter vessel was bound to Sydney from Hamburg, and, when going through the tropics — about 300 miles north of the Equator—a vessel was observed at a distance on fire. Captain Mathewson, of the Candida, altered the course of his ship, and bore down to the assistance of any one who might be on board the burning craft. He at once ordered his boats out to the rescue, but just then two small boats were seen to put off from the the burning ship. These were seen alongside the Candida, and were found to contain the captain, his wife and child, and the entire crew of the doomed ship. The master reported that his vessel was the barque Norge, and that they were on a voyage from Grangemouth, in Scotland, to Buenos Aires, with a cargo of coal. This had taken fire through spontaneous combustion, and for the previous four days had been smouldering. The fire could not be got under, and by the time the Candida hove in sight the position of those on board had become perilous. The rescue was most timely. The Candida fell in with a vessel some days afterwards. She was bound to London, and some of the shipwrecked people were transferred to her, the remainder being landed at Sydney by the Candida.—Mercury Jan. 11th.

El Dia, of La Plata, commenting on the stagnation in real estate, says that although business in land is undoubtedly slack, prices keep up and even continue to show a slight advance. On Sunday some lots sold in the Boulevard 51, between Calles 16 and 17, fetched eleven dollars and a half the yard, or say over fifteen dollars the square metre; considered a very good selling price.

Advices from the South of the province announce that the prolonged drought is parching up the camps and menacing the estancieres with heavy losses. All the "arroyos" and "lagunas" are dry, and the peons are continually at work drawing water for the animals.

Mr. E. Casey left to day for Montevideo, where, according to the last accounts, all the difficulties left by the last liquidation have been finally and completely arranged. There is much improvement on the Bolsa and quotations are looking up again.

Mr. Gnani, the leading Montevidean broker, arrived up and was welcomed on 'Change to-day.

As soon as the two steamers now loading frozen wethers at the Drabble establishment at Campana have been dispatched, the works will be greatly enlarged and killing on a much heavier scale started. For this purpose, improved and more powerful machinery has been brought out from England and will soon be put up. The Dilsberg and Teviotdale will be the next boats on the berth at Campana.

Mr. Bertram, the well-known grain exporter, has chartered the steamship Resolution to load 43,044 bags of maize for San Vicente for orders; most of this cargo is from up-rivers, thirty thousand bags being from the Somoza barraca at San Nicolas. He has also shipped a further lot of twenty thousand bags, which will close the season's business in this grain.

Business at the second hour was very brisk in gold; nearly a million and a half changed hands, though, strange to say, rates showed little or no change, closing at 220.50 for to-morrow, 220.30 for Saturday, 220 50 for the end of the month, and 221.50 for the end of March. In Cedulas and shares next to nothing was done, prices being, if anything, weaker.

Sra. de Audenot and son, Demetrio Demarchi and family, Maria Lecase, Augusto Lecaze, Gregorio Larrondi, Luis Zavalia, Sra. de Bleunstein, Sra. de Casares, Sra. de Basavilbaso, Francisco Casares, wife and daughter, Ed. The steamship Amerique, which left Genoa yesterday for the Plate, brings four hundred passengers and 1000 tons of cargo for this port. Last year the telegram used to read generally the reverse, 1500 passengers and four hundred tons. This falling-off in immigration is not a hopeful sign.

An important project is on the "tapis." Mr. Calviño has proposed to build a port at San Clemente, Cape San Antonio. His project comprises an inner basin 316 metres by eighty metres, for the navy, protected by a range of fortified towers, and a commercial harbor covering forty-four thousand square metres. The cost of the whole work is estimated at twenty millions.

In the plazas, the arrivals of wool are fairly large, but the market is very dull causing nearly all the wool that come in to go to deposit. Wool brokers estimate the deficit in the clip at from forty thousand to fifty thousand bales, which shows how heavily the flocks must have suffered, since the fleeces this season have been unquestionably an improvement in every way over those of preceding years. The deficit is thus over twenty per cent.

In exchange, the market is very quiet and few takers at 47¾d. One party took rather heavily to-day, however, at this figure.

The s.s. Britannia will leave Montevideo on 16th inst. for Rio Janeiro, Lisbon, Vigo, Bordeaux, Plymouth and Liverpool.

Sir H. Cartwright presided on January 8th at the offices of the Anglo-Argentine Bank (Limited), Nicholas-lane, Cannon-street over an extraordinary general meeting of the shareholders. The advertisement stated that the meeting had been convened to consider the confirmation, as a special resolution of the company, in accordance with the 51st section of the Companies' Act, 1882, of the resolution which was passed on December 18th, for increasing the capital of the bank from £500,000 to £1,000,000, by the creation of 50,000 new shares of £10 each. On the motion of the chairman, seconded by Mr. H. J. Norman, the resolution was duly confirmed, and the proceedings, which were merely formal, then terminated.
